

“What Are You Doing Right Now?” Exhibition by Stacey Williams-Ng

Williams-Ng’s newest paintings are a response to the popularity and significance of social media, and in particular, to the status updates. Status updates are a mainstay of social applications like Twitter and Facebook. Users are invited to regularly publish their answers to the question “What are you doing right now?” Responses (or status updates) then show up on the pages of the member’s friends. The result is a sort of collaborative poem, in which everyone’s posts are visible, and equal to one another in emphasis.
